STATEMENT OF CHIEFS AND MEMBERS.

Village Courts in the Madras Presidency have been in existence as a statutory body for some century, and in their present form since 1868 when the Village Courts Act, 1868, came into force. Under this Act there are two kinds of courts, the Village Munsif sitting by himself and the Bench Court constituted under section 5. Village Munsifs sitting alone now dispose of some 10,000 suits a year. The Bench Courts are not so popular, as only about 7,000 suits are tried by them every year. The Bench Court consists of the Village Munsif and of two persons selected, one by the plaintiff and one by the defendant, from a list of villagers prepared by the Collector. The Bench Court, therefore, constitutes an arbitral board rather than a parliament. In spite of the fact that Village Courts dispose of a large number of petty suits, there are still some 45,000 suits which are backed by them but which are filed in and tried by the regular courts of the District Munsif. With a view to increase the jurisdiction of the village tribunals Mr. Phillips was given an special duty to inquire into their working, and as the result of his inquiry he has reported that the local arbitrators under section 5 of the Act are not so success, but that there is a necessity of reforms in favour of some form of parastatal courts. The Government believe that if parastatal courts are established, a considerable proportion of petty suits which now go before the District Munsif will be diverted to the Village Courts.

It is proposed therefore to amend section 5 of the Act in order to substitute for the present bench panel a parastatal to be composed by the Collector in accordance with rules. The members of the parastatal will act as a court in the same manner as a bench of honorary magistrates, that is to say, all the members of the parastatal are elected, those forming a majority. In the selection of the parastatal members the Collector will be guided as far as practicable by the wishes of the people of the locality.

The bulk of jurisdiction of a Village Court, as regards suits, viz., Rs. 10, was fixed in 1868. It is considered that the jurisdiction may now with advantage be raised to Rs. 50.

It is also proposed to amend the Madras Village Parastatal Regulations, 1912, so that it is little used and is not used to prevent any impediments.

As regards the criminal jurisdiction of Village Courts, it is not proposed to extend the power of a village magistrate sitting alone, but it is considered that the great majority of petty offences such as theft, assault, affray, etc., which now go before the regular courts are with advantage be tried in the parastatal courts which it is proposed to set up. The following statistics show what a very large proportion of such complaints end in discharge or acquittal—

Offence.		Discharged or acquitted.	Convicted.
Theft	.. .. .	18,879	1,315
Assault	.. .. .	61,617	8,826
Robbery	.. .. .	12,722	1,538
Extort.	.. .. .	47,622	1,281
Criminal Intemper.	.. .. .	1,143	3,676

It is proposed accordingly to give power to parastatal courts to try the petty offences mentioned in clause 17 of the Bill.

Opportunity is also taken to abolish punishment by confinement in stocks authorized by Regulation XI of 1816.

Village Courts have at present only a meagre criminal jurisdiction along with the regular Civil and Criminal Courts, and it is not considered expedient to give them extensive jurisdiction and experience shows whether the law tribunals give satisfaction to the people. The Bill provides, however, that if any suit is instituted in the Court of District Munsif, which is the opposite of the District Munsif, it may have jurisdiction in the Village Court, as may shall be allowed to a successful plaintiff and a successful defendant shall be allowed to sue as between plaintiff and defendant (cf. proviso (1) to section 18 of the Madras City Civil Court Act, 1907). It also gives power to a Magistrate before whom a complaint made by a parastatal court is brought to refer the complainant to the parastatal court.

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Clause 1 (1).—This amendment is necessitated by the provision of the new section 5 (vide clause 5).

Clause 2 (1).—Title is inserted with reference to the provisions of the new section 18 (1).

Clause 6.—It is proposed to give the power of appointment of village munsifs to divisional officers.

Clause 7 provides for the establishment of the parastatal courts.

Clause 8.—The necessary form of parastatal is added to the Bill. In order to discourage parties from filing suits triable by village courts in district munsif's courts it is proposed to give power to district munsifs to declare some successful plaintiffs.

Clause 10.—This alteration is inserted to meet the possibility of the neighbouring village court being a parastatal court.

Clause 11 (2).—This is necessitated by the provision for the parastatal court but as one member may be replaced by another so transfer to the suit is necessary.

Clause 12.—The provision is added in view of the provisions of the Limitation Act which are applicable to the Village Courts.

Clause 13.—It has been suggested that the village munsif interested or worked by a party to be interested should be required to pay proceedings and report to the district munsif who should be required to transfer the suit to an adjoining village. Provision is made to give effect to this suggestion.

Clause 14.—It is considered desirable that in suits before village courts the expenses incurred on account of plaintiff's suit should not be allowed as such, as good legal assistance is ordinarily unnecessary in suits tried by these village tribunals.

Class 14.—Provision is made for the original summons being signed by the defendant as required by Order 5, rule 14 of the Civil Procedure Code.

(Note 13. —Provide for the affidavit of the statement in case of refusal (rule Order 7, rule 27 of the Civil Procedure Code).

Order 16.—This provision is intended to simplify the existing procedure relating to the grant of orders of degrees.

clause 17.—Provision for transferring criminal jurisdiction over certain specified offences to particular courts and for extending the list of offences triable by such courts. Power is given to regulate procedures to be followed in cases which are triable by particular courts or such courts. The exact details of procedure to be followed are also provided for, and the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure are expressly declared to be inapplicable.

First St. Group, January 18, 1938.

No. 35.—Under the provisions of section 4 of the Indian Registration Act XVI of 1908, the Governor in Council is pleased to direct that from and after the 1st March 1909, the undesignated villages which were formerly of the registration sub-districts of Patalkhanda, 73 villages which were then part of the registration sub-district of Arantak, and 10 villages which were then part of the registration sub-district of Marakhalak, be detached (henceforth to be designated) into a new sub-district under the designation of the registration sub-district of Poverral in the Pongl Division. The limits of the villages shall be the limits which shall from time to time be designated for administrative purposes.

No. 21.—The following resolution of the Government of India is reprinted:—

WOLF DESTRUCTION PENAL.

Bombay, 15th December 1915,
No. 215-C.

ANIMAL DESTRUCTION SERVICE THE MANGALOT WOLF WAR AGAINST AND TROUBLE WOLF.

RESOLUTION.—The annual returns showing the mortality from wild animals and venomous snakes have been received from the local Governments and Administrations.

The total number of persons killed by wild animals in British India during the year 1915 was 3,375 or 2 more than in 1914. As usual, the highest mortality was in Bihar and Orissa, where 545 deaths occurred, including 224 caused by tigers as compared with 374 in the preceding year. As much as 148 persons were killed by tigers in the districts of Amal, Baghalpur, Madhwa, Banah, Chhota, Chhota, Dhanu, Dhanu and Patna. The local authorities are taking up have in contemplation various measures to reduce the loss of life in these tracts. In all 1,175 human beings were destroyed by tigers in British India; the variation under this head is greater than that Bihar and Orissa. It is not said for any person except by the case of the Madras Presidency where mortality from tigers decreased by 121 in 1915. The number of deaths caused by elephants, leopards, bears, wolves and hyenas was for an amount. Under the head of "unclassified animals," pigs and crocodiles or alligators were responsible for 174 and 105 deaths respectively.

3.—The total mortality due to snakes among human beings fell from 56,624 in 1914 to 53,440 in 1915. The decrease is shared by nearly all the provinces; as usual the United Provinces, Bihar and Orissa and Baghal were the provinces which suffered most, with 8,712, 5,870 and 4,154 deaths, respectively.

4.—During 1915, 32,474 wild animals were destroyed, among which were 2,399 tigers, 2,019 leopards, 3,711 bears and 2,578 wolves. The total amount of rewards paid under this head was Rs. 1,72,875. There was a considerable reduction both in the number of animals killed and the amount paid as reward for their destruction. No definite recommendation as yet to make as the efficacy of incentives by Sir Leslie Bragg's letter, although these incentives are reported to have affected a number of cases in cases which they were used.

5.—Under the Indian Game Act, 1879, 22,312 licenses were issued in Form XVI, XVII and XVIII in 1915, an increase of 610 over the figure of the previous year. The total number of licenses in force was 127,440, as compared with 127,582 in 1914.

GOVERNMENT PURCHASE OF TEA FOR THE UNITED KINGDOM.

(PREFERENCE BASIS.)

Tenders are invited by the undersigned from Southern India Tea Companies and Tea Factories established in India (i.e., outside the Dominion or possession of which are held-out in India) for the supply of black tea for the United Kingdom, up to the 31st May 1915. The total quantity required, including War Office requirements from the 1st January to the 31st May 1915, is approximately 145,000 cwt of the total crop of 1915. Each estate (i.e., therefore, under any quantity up to 12 per cent of the production in 1915). In the case of Southern India, however, where many tea estates or plantations are coming into bearing, the total quantity to be taken will be equivalent to 60 per cent of the 1915 crop, which is intended to be equal to about 35 per cent of the probable 1916 crop. Southern India must supply. Therefore, under a quantity equivalent, either to 35 per cent of the 1915 crop or to 60 per cent of the estimated 1916 crop, the estate may supply in either one or both of either the 1915 or the 1916 crop or of both extensions of 1915 production will be given by the Advisory Committee. If an estate can supply more than the above quantity the fact should be stated on the tender. The percentage taken will include all tea shipped to England, from India, or Ceylon ports as provided on and after the 1st November 1915, which will be taken over by the Food Controller at the overseas rates. It will also include all tea subsequently assigned to the Food Controller under various arrangements pending the conclusion of contracts with estates. Only black tea will be taken. The percentage will apply to all grades of black tea produced, including alone that, estates being required to supply on 100 per cent of the total production of each grade in 1915, each estate (including, as far as possible, the usual proportion of each grade). In the event of any estate being unable to supply the full required proportion of every grade available, this fact should be stated in the tender, and any adjustment in price necessary will be made before the contract is concluded. Southern India estates tendering 1915 tea, manufactured within the period of this contract, would be required when manufacturing such tea was to other previous methods of packing but to maintain the present popularity of such grade and to sell all large leaf tea. All tea produced will be kept in combination by experts in India, and, if the quality is not up to the present standard of manufacture of the same in respect of appearance or a lower cost, such reduction being arranged by the undersigned, in respect of amounts required in India and by the Food Controller in respect of amounts controlled in England. Garden weights will be accepted by the undersigned, but this tea will be weighed on arrival in England by the Customs and any adjustment in payment necessary will be made by the Food Controller through the Tea Commission. All tea will, also, be stored in England, and claims made by the Food Controller for damage to tea or defective packing. The usual system of packing, including the quality of the tea boxes and tea leaf, must be maintained and losses must be in strict condition before acceptance for shipment.

The contract price, which will be £2000 at the port of shipment, will be calculated as follows:—

- I.—Tea selling on the London market.—The average London selling price realized in the years 1911, 1912 and 1913 less 50 of a penny for intermediate charges and one and six one half penny for normal cost of production at rate of exchange in 1913.
- II.—Tea selling on the Calcutta or Colombo market.—The average Calcutta or Colombo auction price realized in the years 1911, 1912 and 1913, plus one half penny or half an anna for insurance cost of production and plus cost of shipping etc., cost of shipping at Calcutta or Port of India prices, and minor sale charges, and other Calcutta or Colombo charges. In order to arrive the price of making detailed calculations in the case of such contracts, the undersigned has decided that as regards tea sold in Calcutta and Colombo a net deduction of 75 of an anna per lb. may be made to cover the difference between the cost of shipping and sale charges.
- III.—Tea selling partly on the London and partly on the Calcutta or Colombo market.—The average sale price realized on both markets in the years 1911, 1912 and 1913 with the addition and deduction specified in I and II above.
- IV.—Tea selling their tea on markets other than the London and Calcutta or Colombo markets, and partly on outside markets and partly in London or Calcutta and Colombo and others with no previous sales.—The price paid for similar tea.

The average for the three years should be calculated by dividing the total sale proceeds for the total sale for the three years, the result being worked out in two places of decimals of a penny or an anna, as the case may be. When a contract involves of two or more sales each manufacturing its own tea, separate figures should be furnished for each sales. The figures submitted should, if possible, be certified or signed by a Chartered Accountant. In the case of contracts, the amounts of which are not settled by a Chartered Accountant, the figures of total, gross sold and retail sale-proceeds should, if possible, be certified by the Broker who sold the tea or by the Attorney General.

Tea will be paid for in India. Tea now and for the use of all tea, except that consigned to the War Office which is exempted from the payment of export duty will be paid by the Food Controller and should be included in the bill of sale. The delivery of the amount controlled for will be made in equal monthly instalments as far as freight arrangements permit, but in any event, delivery in warehouse of the whole quantity will be made and payment made on or before the 31st August 1918, payments made in August having interest at a per cent per annum from the 1st August. Producers will be responsible for warehouse charges and discounts for one month after the date specified by the undersigned for the amount of tea in the warehouse, the undersigned paying warehouse charges after that period but not insurance charges, as an insurance will be effected on Government tea.

In order to enable the undersigned to conclude the contracts with writers, the following information in respect of such sales controlled in India should be furnished to him without delay, as a form which will be supplied on application to the Collector of Customs, Madras:—

Under rule 22 of the rules for the conduct of business at meetings of the Council, the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons, is published for general information:—

No. 5 of 1867.

A Bill further to amend the Madras Irrigation Cess Act, 1865.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Madras Irrigation Cess Act, 1865, and the Madras Irrigation Cess Act Amendment Act, 1863, it is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Madras Irrigation Cess Act Amendment Act, 1867.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the context, the word "section" shall mean section of the Madras Irrigation Cess Act, 1865, and the word "preamble" shall mean the preamble to the said Act.

3. (1) The following shall be substituted for the preamble:—

"Whereas it is expedient to declare the law relating to the levy of water cess in the Madras Presidency: It is hereby enacted as follows".

(ii) In clause (c) of section 1, for the words "tank or work belonging to, or constructed by, Government" the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"lake, tank, work or other source which belongs wholly or partly to the Government or which is connected as part of a system of irrigation with any river, stream, channel, lake, tank, work or other source belonging as aforesaid to Government".

(iii) In clause (B) of the same section, for the words "tank or work" shall be substituted the words "lake, tank, work or other source".

(iv) For the first provision to section 1, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"Provided that no cess shall be levied upon any land in an estate, which was either actually irrigated or registered as wet at the time of the grant or settlement by Government as the case may be, or which has been in the opinion of the Government or may be with the approval of the Government brought under irrigation in substitution for such land; but any such exemption shall extend to first crop cultivation only, unless the land was at the time of, or prior to, the said grant or settlement cultivated with a second crop".

(v) At the end of section 1, the following words shall be inserted:—

"Explanation.—In this section the words 'land in an estate' shall mean 'land in any estate as defined in section 3 of the Madras Estates Land Act, 1903,' and shall include also any land in respect of which, or in respect of the land revenue of which, a grant in inam has been made, confirmed or recognised by the British Government."

(vi) At the end of section 1-A, the following words shall be inserted:—

"Explanation.—'Estate', 'Landholder' and 'ryot' in this section shall have the same meanings as in the Madras Estates Land Act, 1903."

4. In section 1 of Madras Act II of 1913 as amended by Act II of 1916 the words "and shall continue in force until the 31st day of December 1920" shall be omitted.

5. The validity of any levy of cess made under the Madras Irrigation Cess Act, 1853, on or after 1st July 1916 shall be determined as if this Act had come into force on that date.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The main object of this Bill is to declare and establish the law relating to the levy of water-cess in the Madras Presidency as it was generally understood and administered by the executive as well as by the Revenue authorities before the decision of the Privy Council in the Uthman case (111 Ind. 28, 32 Mad. 384-44 Indian Appeals 104). That decision seriously affects the interpretation of the law on the subject which has been in force for the past half a century and which has been generally applied by the courts in Madras. According to that interpretation, as clearly explained by Sir James Aggrey and Meade, J., in Chidambaram Rao v. the Secretary of State for India in Council, 111 Ind. 28, 32 Mad. 384, the Zamindar or Inamdar is entitled to irrigate free of charge and from the same source the same extent of wet land as was irrigated at the time of grant or settlement. On any other extent he is subject to the statutory obligation imposed by Act VII of 1863 to pay water-cess. Unless subsequent to the grant or settlement there was any contract between him and Government, the extent of establishment which will be on the Zamindar or Inamdar, under which he has been entitled to irrigate is in respect of an additional extent of land, he cannot claim exemption from payment of water-cess under Act VII of 1863 in respect of any additional extent of land which may have been brought under cultivation since the grant or settlement. The exemption from water-cess in respect of the wet area irrigated at the time of the grant or settlement extended either to that crop cultivated only or to both first and second crop cultivation according as the land was cultivated as single crop, land or as double crop land at the time of such grant or settlement. The right of the Zamindar or Inamdar to make improvements by an extension of wet cultivation or by second crop cultivation, without an addition to the land tax, viz., the palikottai or equivalent, was not disputed but he was not entitled to any exemption from the statutory water-cess if in making such improvements he used water from a river belonging wholly or partly to Government or from an irrigation source which was supplied with water from a river belonging wholly or partly to Government. Notwithstanding these recent fluctuations of judicial opinion, this was the general result of the decided cases as will appear by reference to the following recorded decisions:—25 Ind. 63; 32 Ind. 437; 34 Ind. 263; 35 Ind. 931; 1 Law Weekly 911; A.S. Nos 356 and 357 of 1909; A.S. Nos 186 to 188 of 1910; 34 Ind. 325; 34 Ind. 23; 37 Ind. 212; 38 Ind. 124, Law Journal 143, etc.

3. Though, on the whole, the above interpretation of the law was well established, the wording of the Irrigation Cess Act was not free from ambiguity and in the Uthman water-cess case this ambiguity has been noticed by the Privy Council. In their judgment it is that once their Lordships observe, "it cannot be denied that with regard to the law meaning and construction of this Act various difficulties arise. In the first place it might have been expected from the recitals that the case which the Government are authorized to levy would have been confined to a case in the case of land irrigated from works constructed or supported by Government and would have been in some way proportional to the extra profits derivable by reason of such irrigation. But this does not seem to be the effect of the first clause. The statement of the case is contradictory and as a matter of fact it is based on the basis of the area irrigated, irrespective of actual or possible profits. Moreover it appears to be doubtful whether the Government have or have not spent money in controlling or improving the source from which the water is supplied. If, for example, a riparian owner irrigates his land with water derived from a river or stream of which it can be truly said that it is a river or stream belonging to Government, a case would appear to be doubtful even though the Government had never spent a single rupee in improving the source or supply." Again their Lordships say, "It is by no means easy to decide as to the class of cases which the first proviso is intended to meet. . . . There is a difficulty in saying at what is the meaning of the expression 'free of separate charge'." A provision that the person paying on the proviso must prove that he is already being charged for the supply would be intelligible, for in that case by the imposition of a cess he would be charged twice for the same thing. But this is not what he has to prove. Indeed, he has to prove the contrary. The main point either that he is not charged already for the supply, or that the charge, if any, is not a separate charge." The judgment also remarks that "it is by no means easy to say what is meant by a river or stream belonging to the Government," but it adds that the law of the Madras Presidency as to rivers and streams certainly differs in some respects from the English Law, and that it is quite possible that the law recognizes some proprietary right on the part of Government in the water flowing in river and streams. The Privy Council were certainly induced to consider Madras Act III of 1863 as creating that all standing and flowing water, and the property of private individuals, is the property of Government, subject to natural and easement rights of other landholders. But they said that if Madras Act III of 1863 be relied on "it is a close question whether a riparian owner who is exercising his natural or prescriptive right of taking water from a natural stream for purposes of agriculture is taking water from a stream belonging to the Government within the meaning of the Cess Act."

5. These remarks draw attention to the difficulties which arise out of the obscurity of the wording of the Madras Act VII of 1863. The first proviso to section 3 of that Act has hitherto been understood to allow a Zamindar or Inamdar the right to free irrigation from the irrigation sources which were in existence at the time of the permanent settlement or the lease settlement only to the extent of the then wet cultivation. This right to exemption rested upon the ground that the Zamindar or Inamdar was already assessed for the supply required for that extent because the wet assessment included the charge for water. The expression "free of separate charge" in the first proviso to the section was understood to be intended to exclude cases where the Zamindar or Inamdar was previously charged for water one by a water use and the protection of the person was only applicable in respect of any additional value or contribution where there was an engagement to supply water in future without any separate charge. Further, the water-use was not the land tax of which the permanent assessment was made under Regulation XXV of 1901. The definition of "public service" in section 1 of the Revenue Recovery Act, 1941, and section 2 of the Act VII of 1933 make it clear that water-use was not intended to be covered by the term land-taxation. Neither the permanent assessment nor the lease assessment would therefore be taken to be a settlement of water-use payable to Government for water taken therefrom from sources which were in existence at the time of such settlement, and which were part of a connected system of irrigation. The members of their Lordships have however thrown doubt on these interpretations, and it is therefore now necessary to resolve the law relating to levy of water-use and to remove the uncertainty due to the defective wording of the Act and the difficulties thereby brought to light by the Udum case and Advantage has also been taken of this opportunity to make the provisions of the Amending Act II of 1945 permissive.

4. The following notes on clauses are added:—

Clause 3 (i) substitutes a new paragraph for the existing one. The latter has been responsible for the contention that Act VII of 1885 applies only when Government has constructed a complete work of irrigation for the public benefit at its own expense. This contention has never been upheld, and has now been rejected by the Privy Council, but the present wording of the paragraph is contrary to the intent of the Act and should be removed.

Clause 4 (a) is introduced to make it clear that whether a source wholly or partly belongs to Government or is supplied with water from such a Government source, the liability for the use arises.

Clause 5 (iv) removes the difficulties caused by the expressions "engagements" and "type of separate charge", and states the scope of the exemption as established by practice and is accordance with the view of the High Court as laid down in I.L.R., 33 Mad. and elsewhere.

Clause 6 (v) defines "land in an estate" so as to include two kinds of tenures which are not included in section 2 (2) (d) of the Madras Estates Land Act, 1908, viz., (1) tenures whether of a whole village or only of a small subset of land therein, granted to a person owning the land therein thereof, and (2) minor tenures of various kinds.

Clause 8 (i) explains itself.

Clause 9 validates the levy of water-use made in accordance with the interpretation of the Act which was generally accepted prior to the decision in the Udum case but limits the retrospective operation of the Bill.
